Base of Operations: Washington, DC

Group Affiliations: US Guardian Program

When there is a threat to America, there is one hero who is more than ready to kick some serious butt. His name is The Major. A product of genetic engineering, The Major is a perfected Genetec. His combat skills are uncanny, his rage is controlled and there isn't one foreign national that wants to mess with this overly patriotic Guardian. He is everything that is American, from the Republican perspective. The Major hates peace protesters and Leftists. Anyone who threatens his version of the American Way usually gets a shield to the side of their head. Speaking of shields, The Major's is made out of Trimantium. This alien metal was brought to Earth by visitors from beyond the stars. Of course the Americans captured the aliens and dissected them. The shield was forged using their technology. It is impervious to almost all damage. The shield does damage equal to The Major's Might +1 rank (Fantastic Damage).

Quotes: The only law here is me. Last time I looked, you are as guilty as sin. A judge? Who needs them. You call yourself a hero, good. I need some target practice.

Age: 3 Height: 7 ft
Weight: 400 lbs Hair: N/A

Base of Operations: South America

Group Affiliations: Mercenary Club

Mandroid was the first fully functional cybernetic police officer in Chicago. Then the Mercenary Club showed up and kidnapped him. With his inhibitor chip removed, Mandroid is a walking talking thinking feeling machine with one thing on his mind, busting people up real good. He has no recollection of his past. Instead Mandroid focuses on the here and now. That means taking down every hero he can get his hands on. In most cases he can really dish it out. Sometimes his ego gets the best of him. Mandroid likes to victimize weaker heroes, avoiding the ones who can really do damage to him. Mandroid also has replacement parts just in case he is smashed up really good. The only part of him that is flesh is a small heavily armored container where his brain sits (Supreme material).

Special Weapon: Pulse Cannon: 50damage
